

Colman Dock remains open during Alaskan Way Viaduct closure

The Alaskan Way Viaduct will be closed for approximately two weeks beginning next Friday, April 29, while Bertha tunnels underneath it. Colman Dock will remain open to vehicles and pedestrians during this time, and we will be running our normal sailing schedule. That being said, closing the viaduct will result in increased congestion in the downtown Seattle area. During the closure, passengers should consider scheduling ferry trips to avoid the heaviest traffic and walk aboard instead of driving if possible. In addition, the King County Water Taxi's Vashon route will provide five extra round trip sailings daily. For more information on the closure, go to the tunnel project website: 99closure.org

Orcas spotted on the Edmonds/Kingston run

Four orcas came in for a closer look on the Edmonds/Kingston run Thursday morning. It looks like they were just as curious about our passengers as the passengers were about them! Thank you to Capt. Jamie Pelland and the

Customer Compliment

"My daughter and two granddaughters were hurrying to meet me arriving at the Edmonds terminal ... when the youngest, aged 5 years, accidentally stumbled, scraping her ankle and knee. While we calmed her and administered first aid, the young man from the nearby dock tollbooth rushed over to give us disinfectant spray and bandages. This was far and above any action we expected from anyone working in an official capacity in the area."
