Alaskan Way street detour along the waterfront

In January 2012 traffic along Alaskan Way South was routed under the viaduct, at the western edge of Pioneer Square. The vacant stretch of Alaskan Way South is being used as part of the SR 99 tunnel work zone. This detour, which keeps traffic moving along the waterfront during construction, will be extended north to Spring Street in spring 2012. Changes to Alaskan Way between Yesler Way and Spring Street will help accommodate ferry traffic and transit service while the detour is in place.
