 Federal Aviation Administration

National Based Aircraft Inventory Program

The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA)'s National Based Aircraft Inventory Program requires the non-Primary NPIAS airports to enter the aircraft that are based at their facilities into this website so the counts of based aircraft can be validated and submitted to the 5010 Inspection data.

- Only NPIAS airports with service levels of Commercial Service, Reliever, or General Aviation are required to participate. (Non-NPIAS and the Primary airports should report their based aircraft counts directly to their inspectors.)
- For these non-Primary NPIAS airports, based aircraft counts for single-engine, multi-engine, jets, and helicopters for the FAA's Form 5010-1 (Items 90-93) must come from the data on this site and this site is now a component of their annual inspections.

The site is to be used by airport managers, sponsors, and their authorized personnel to review and maintain their lists of based aircraft. State aviation offices and specific FAA personnel are also authorized to use the site for the support of the airports in this purpose.

For general questions, please send them to basedaircraftsupport@basedaircraft.com. See FAQ's for additional contact information and a definition of based aircraft.
