

Construction of new Mukilteo fishing pier underway

Marine construction crews began driving piles this week for a new fishing pier just east of our new Mukilteo terminal building. We're replacing the old fishing pier near Ivar's with one of roughly the same length. It's scheduled to open in fall with the new terminal.

The new fishing pier at our new Mukilteo ferry terminal site will provide space for between four and seven small boats to tie up.

Looking for a food vendor for new Mukilteo terminal

For ferry riders who might be struck by hunger while waiting in the holding lanes at the new Mukilteo ferry terminal, we're on it. This week we issued a request for proposals for vendors to provide food services inside the holding area at the new terminal when it opens this fall. We'll announce our

Vehicle reservations for spring schedule available Wednesday, Feb. 5

The first round of vehicle reservations for our spring schedule (March 29 through June 20) on our Anacortes/San Juan Islands/Sidney, British Columbia and Port Townsend/Coupeville routes will now be available starting at 7 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 5. As a reminder, the second tier of reservations opens two weeks before each specific sailing and the final 30% of space on each sailing becomes available two days before.

New writer-in-residence on our San Juan Islands interisland route

Last year, Iris Graville took her final ride as writer-in-residence on our San Juan Islands interisland route. After an "enjoyable and productive" residency, Iris passed the torch to Liz Smith. "I enjoy what the ferry offers in terms of both peacefulness and connectedness," Liz said.

selected vendor this spring.

The selected food vendor will set up operations in front of the head of the holding lanes near the new maintenance building, which will have restrooms.
