5 Bites You Can't Live Without

Salami Artisan Cured Meats

Quite possibly the best cured meats we've had in the city. Pick and choose from favorites like Finocchiona (cracked fennel, black pepper with a hint of curry) or the house favorite Salumi Salami (with a touch of ginger) to build your own sandwich. Don't miss the Porchetta, named one of the best sandwiches in America by Esquire and flowing with juices that its hunk of bread can barely contain. Get there early, line forms fast.

More Info

Café Paloma

Classic Mediterranean fare in a cheery atmosphere with big, bright windows. Lots of vegetarian items like classic falafel and börek—flaky filo dough envelops warm spinach, feta and caramelized onions. The carrot salad is blended with yogurt and pine nuts, resembling a refreshing dip more than a salad, so make good use of those pita triangles that accompany.

More Info

Delicatus

Another meat-lover's dream, with every sandwich under the sun. Organized chaos is one way to describe the atmosphere: Bruce Springsteen blasts over the stereo as line cooks direct floods of patrons for to-go orders, sit-down, counter or bar seating. "The Fire of 1899" sandwich, with spicy braised pork, hot peppers and jalapeño-lime aioli packs some serious, tasty heat.

More Info

Cherry St. Coffee House

Sprouting into five locations after the original opened in 1997, Cherry St. continues its legacy as the go-to soup/sandwich combo spot. The classic ham and cheddar sandwich has such a freshness to it that it tastes exciting and new. Don't miss their homemade veggie burger, which has a "cult-like" following, or the lentil soup.

Tat's Delicatessen

Lines form like they do at Salumi, but you can check the "line cam" online to see the queue sitch. The "TV-famous" Tat's trami sandwich is a total hit and perfect for a cold day or a day when you won't have time for Second Lunch (read: humongous sandwich). On the flip-side, the Roast Veggie redefines cold sub, as these veggies are perfectly chilled, but perfect for a warm weather picnic in the park.

Coincidence? Played this word while waiting to order

Love Is In The Air!

Valentine's Day is almost here, the best eating holiday after Thanksgiving. YourSpot has curated a few ideas to get you thinking about how you'll spend the special day in Pioneer Square or along Seattle's Waterfront.

Waterside Cocktails and Noshes

Kick off your evening at The Edgewater Hotel's Six Seven Restaurant for a happy hour signature cocktail ($6) and an array of delicious appetizers ($5). Some of our favorites include Salumi's cured meat plate, with fruit pastes, dry provolone and grilled bread, as well as the Tandoori lamb sliders.

Hop aboard the Royal Argosy for their Dinner Cruise, taking place on the weekend before (Feb. 11) and again on Valentine's Day. Enjoy a 5-course, pre-set dinner with lots of surf and turf noshes like lobster cakes, scallops, and tenderloin medallions. Sunday, Feb. 12 is the Valentine's Day Brunch Buffet aboard Royal Argosy, with items like the Waldorf Salad, Cinnamon Swirl French Toast and Uli's sausages—handmade in Pike Place Market. Both events feature a live band. Wonder if Ted Lange will be behind the bar slinging drinks?

Romantically French, Locally Northwest

Photo: Marché

If you haven't gotten your sea legs yet, stay ashore and dine at Marché—a French bistro that recently opened in the Pike Place Market. Showcasing French bites and many wines by the glass, it has a distinctively French feel but also captures what makes a quintessentially Northwest restaurant: fresh, seasonal ingredients, elegant, but casual atmosphere in the heart of Seattle's famous landmark. Not to miss are the Salade du Marché (pictured), an absolute explosion of color and freshness, as well as the hearty Washington Sweet Onion and Parmesan Gratin.

Tutti a tavola a mangiare!

Il Terrazzo Carmine, or as 98% of Seattle calls it, Carmine's, is where white tablecloths, a subdued, romantic atmosphere coupled with fine fare will instantly transport you to Bella Italia. If you're hungry, then Ossobuco Milanese surely satisfies—a center cut veal shank, braised in wine with vegetables and served over saffron risotto. On the lighter side, try the Linguine Alle Vongole—the pasta is tossed with fresh Manila clams, chilies, garlic, parsley and olive oil (pictured). Complimentary valet parking after 5 pm.
